The Countdown Begins: One Day Left To Place Bids at BAM's Benefit Auction

By Paddy Johnson

Published April 9, 2011

Alright, who hasn't placed a bid at BAM's Benefit Auction yet? Time to move! The auction closes tomorrow at 6 pm. The Ryan Johnson mixed media work above needs a home. A cocktail reception will be held tomorrow from 3-6 for those wanting to hob nob a little before the auction closes. I hope to see at least a few readers there as the BAM benefit events are usually a blast. Speaking of which, this time I intend to remain sober. The last BAM auction reception I attended resulted in a little too much fun and a lost weekend.

In anticipation of tomorrow's closing I've added few more items to my original list readers might enjoy:

Kristofer Porter, "Pattern", 2010, Ink on paper 7 1/2 x 11 inches, Opening bid: $800.00

Kristofer Porter's "Pattern" is easy to miss on the BAM website, as the thumb can not convey the amount of detail in this gorgeous print. Click on the large-sized image here though, to see why this piece is so appealing. The paper and detailing is gorgeous.
