Gallery of Ceramic History

Jason Jacques is not only passionate about buying and selling art pottery, he's just as passionate about educating the public through exhibitions, articles and books. Having recently relocated his gallery to a space just off Madison Avenue at 29 East 73 Street, he plans to present comprehensive exhibitions of Art Nouveau and Japonist pottery and to publish in his areas of expertise. "I have a full time research professional on staff now and this will allow me to create scholarly journals on the artists I admire from this period," he says.

The launch show for the new gallery, Masterpieces of the French Art Pottery Movement: 1885-1910, includes more than 40 pieces by artists such as Hector Guimard, Clement Massier, Jean Carries, Georges Hoentschel, Emile Grittel, Edmond and Raoul Lachenal, Emile Decoeur, plus Chaplet, Dalpayrat, Damousse, Bussiere, Delaherche, Cazin, Doat, Mougin and others.
