

THE NEW YORK OBSERVER
Culture

Uptown, Downtown

By Alexandra Peers

November 9, 2010 | 11:12 p.m

No one neighborhood rules the art scene anymore. Here's a look at a series of fall-show highlights on both the Upper East Side and in Chelsea. Uptown or downtown, it's just a fast afternoon's walk through some of the better art in the city.

UPTOWN

Damien Hirst, "Medicine Cabinets"

L&M ARTS

45 East 78th Street

Through Dec. 11

www.lmgallery.com

This particular show unites for the first time a series of cabinets Damien Hirst made in 1989, each one inspired by a track off the classic Sex Pistols album Never Mind the Bollocks, Here's the Sex Pistols. The ultra-clean white gleaming cabinets, filled with drugs, skin products, medicine and remedies, chillingly mix minimalism and Pop Art.